

Name: _____ Date: _____

Article Self-Feedback Form

	Strengths What am I doing well already?	Criteria Expectations for my writing task:	Areas for Growth How could I make my writing even stronger? How can my writing improve?
Perspectives		I include two perspectives about my topic, and I explain each perspective with main ideas and supporting details.
Expert Quotes		I include at least one expert quote for each perspective, using attribution tags that show who said it, their credibility, and how they said it.
Structure		I use engaging subheadings to indicate what each perspective has to say about my topic. I keep the length of my paragraphs short so that they are easy to read. I use transitions to show a contrast between the two perspectives, link main ideas, and connect main ideas to supporting details.
Language		I keep my writing objective and neutral, without adding my own opinion. I use at least four relative clauses to add detail and combine sentences. I have underlined my relative clauses.

Introduction		I begin with a hook to grab my readers' attention. I provide brief, essential introductory information about the topic. I have a thesis statement that previews the two perspectives about the topic.
Conclusion		I restate the two perspectives. I briefly explain connections between the perspectives. I end by emphasizing why this topic matters to my audience.

Peer Feedback Form

	Strengths What is my peer doing well already?	Criteria Expectations for the writing task:	Areas for Growth How could my peer make their writing even stronger? How could their writing improve?
Perspectives		My peer includes two perspectives about my topic and explains each perspective with main ideas and supporting details.
Expert Quotes		My peer includes at least one expert quote for each perspective, using attribution tags that show who said it, their credibility, and how they said it.
Structure		My peer uses engaging subheadings to indicate what each perspective has to say about the topic. My peer keeps the length of their paragraphs short so that they are easy to read. My peer uses transitions to show a contrast between the two perspectives, link main ideas, and connect main ideas to supporting details.
Language		My peer keeps the writing objective and neutral, without adding their own opinion. My peer uses relative clauses to add details and combine sentences. My peer has underlined their relative clauses.

Introduction		My peer begins with a hook to grab readers' attention. My peer provides brief, essential background information about the topic. My peer has a thesis statement that previews the two perspectives about the topic.
Conclusion		My peer restates the two perspectives. My peer explains connections between the perspectives. My peer ends by emphasizing why this topic matters to their audience.	