

Name: _____

Date: _____

Narrative Brainstorming Page

Prompt: What might life in your area look like in one hundred years if humanity does not address the climate crisis?

| Consequences of Climate ChangeWhat changes will we notice in the weather or environment? | Possible Impact on Local AreaWhat changes will we notice in the land, air, or sea (or the ecosystems there)? | Possible Impact on HumanityWhat changes will we notice in how humans live, behave, or organize? |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                              |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                              |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                              |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                     |

Using information from each column in a row, write three "If . . . , then . . . , so . . ." sentences that can describe the main setting and conflict of your cli-fi scene:

1. _____
_____

2. _____
_____

3. _____
_____